Bourbon's Stock and Crops.

The corn crop is very backward in places, and if all had been planted there would have been more than an average. That which was put out early looks well.

The hemp crop is very uneven and very thin in places; some thick enough to make a good crop and some very thin and will grow too coarse, but will make good seed; some knee high and just coming up. Parts of few fields had to be sown over. J. E. Clay's crop of hemp last year yielded about 1,200 pounds to the acre and got about eight bushels of seed to the acre off about fifty acres.

The wheat crop looks exceedingly well in places where not pastured, but short and thin where pastured. Some complaint of rust. Some expect to commence harvesting next week.

The hay meadows will be very common in most places and very high again another year. Some meadows are not worth cutting, and others very thin; a few good ones of timothy, but the clover meadows as a general thing are very good, but scarce.

The oat crop will also be short unless we have a good deal more rain.

Buyers are beginning to catch lambs and they claim them far better than heretofore; they are averaging from 75 to 90 pounds already.

The cattle market is much lower and dragging, from 3 to 3½ cents for good butcher stuff, but the butchers don't seem to make any difference in the price of meat. They sell for same price as when they gave 4½ to 5 cents a pound.

IN THE ART GALLERIES.

The extraordinary price of 1,850 guineas was paid recently at Christie's, in London, for a set of twelve illustrations in charcoal and wash by Fragonard.

The London World says that Mrs. Kuhne Beveridge, the sculptor, has taken a house on Park street and commenced work on a monumental bas-relief depicting the charge of the rough riders at San Juan hill. President Roosevelt is leading the charge and at his feet lie Hamilton Fish. Sergeant Hamilton Fish was killed at Las Guasimas several days before the fight at San Juan.

Murphy's portrait of President McKinley has been received at the White House and now hangs to the right of the north vestibule door, the space on the left of the door being occupied by Sargent's portrait of President Roosevelt. The hanging is a favorable one for an oil painting and the portrait, which was painted from a photograph, the artist never having seen Mr. McKinley, is much admired. The late president's friends declare it the best likeness of Mr. McKinley in existence.

Charles Schreyvogel, the "painter of the western frontier," works even in cold weather on his roof in New York. This last winter he had a soldier for a model. The trooper was told to assume a recumbent posture, as if wounded. It was bitterly cold, but the painter became so absorbed in his work that he did not experience any discomfort. The soldier, accustomed to obedience, lay perfectly still. When Mr. Schreyvogel had finished he found this really model model so benumbed that he had to half carry, half drag him down to the studio and revive him with an alcohol bath (external and internal) before the poor fellow could stand on his legs again.

A feature of the Glasgow exhibition of the year before last was the colossal statue of King Edward VII, which stood below the central dome. They are still removing the buildings, etc., of the exhibition and at the end of last week the statue was "dealt with." The ceremony lacked fastidiousness. A noose was drawn tightly round the neck of the king, half a dozen navies hitched themselves to the ground end of the rope and—the great statue lay in many fragments. The charitable explanation is advanced that this course was taken to remove any chance of his majesty, when he goes to Glasgow, seeing himself as so many thousands had been led to imagine him.

TOLD OF ROYALTY.

Since 1603 no member of the royal family has been lord lieutenant of Ireland.

A pigmy camel has been sent by the shah of Persia to the zoo at Berlin, which is only 27 inches high and weighs 611 pounds. It is snow white.

Queen Wilhelmina, patroness and founder of the incubator institute at The Hague, has been sued for 2,500 guildens by Francis Gerhard because the latter's boy baby was exchanged for a girl while in the oven.

The sultan is said to be a wonder with a revolver and is one of the finest shots in the world. He always has a few in his clothes and is usually looking for an assassin. Recently he dropped a gardener in the palace gardens who came from behind a tree suddenly. The sultan is a quick man, and, as they say in the west, "some stand with his artillery."

MEDICAL MENTION.

The government of Bombay has offered four prizes for one year's observation on the distribution and habits of malaria-bearing mosquitoes.

The London Hospital directs attention to the fact, overlooked by most parents, that the habits and tastes of children as regards food require careful education, otherwise the limits of useful food, capable of exciting a proper appetite, become so narrow that a proper variation in diet is difficult to attain.

A rise of body temperature from 98.4 degrees F., the normal, to 107 degrees is speedily followed by death. Drs. Halliburton and Mott find that cell-globulin coagulates at the latter temperature, and they conclude that the fatal results of high fever are due to coagulation of this proteid in the cells of the nerve centers and other parts of the body.

FOREIGN TOWN GOSSIP.

For wrapping up meat in a newspaper for a customer, a Vienna butcher has been fined 16 shillings.

The other day in Paris a dog was seen in a motor car with a well-fitted pair of blue spectacles to protect his eyes.

Because it came from a Jew, an offer of £5,000 for a monument to the Polish patriot, Kosciuszko, at Lemberg, Galicia, was declined as a "Jewish impertinence."

The urban council of the mining village of Huthwaite possesses a set of boxing gloves presented to it by a local joker, who thought they might be useful during little "breezes" at meetings, and reference to the gloves always induces a calm.

COMMON AND UNCOMMON.

The average American uses 126 pins a year.

It costs $400 in advertising to sell $1,000 worth of breakfast food.

Twelve hotels in New York city have more than 300 telephones each. There are not more than 1,000 general advertisers in the whole country.

Safety pins are peculiarly American. We use 144,000,000 of them each year.

OVERHEARD IN THE FOYER.

According to a famous musician, about 50 per cent. of the German nation understand music.

Mrs. Langtry was displeased because she became a grandmother recently. She is afraid some one will consider the Lily how she grows—old.

"Patti," said a physician who knows her, "attributes her astonishing retention of youth to her abstemious way of life. She has never drunk tea, coffee or wine, but only water and milk, and she has been almost a vegetarian, eating more nuts and fruits than anything else. She has always slept a full eight hours, and, notwithstanding the importance of her voice to her, has always had her bedroom windows wide open, winter and summer."

Here is a story about Kubelik that did not come from his press agent. The violinist was once asked to play at a lunatic asylum. He chose a brilliant Slav composition and the audience seemed delighted. One of the regular boarders came up and began to talk with him. Kubelik asked him how he liked the performance. The lunatic stared at him for awhile and then said: "Well, to think of the likes of you being allowed out while I am kept in here."

During her engagement in San Francisco Mrs. Patrick Campbell was taken for a trip around the bay. Among the party was a young man of the all-pervading kind, whose attentions to the noted actress were more lavish than welcome. As the party stood gazing on the city the young man said: "Do you see that house up there, Mrs. Campbell?" describing the location. "Yes," said the patient guest. "I was born there," remarked the numerous one, proudly. He paused for a reply and this was what he heard: "What a pity." The young man managed to efface himself.

SCIENTIFIC OBSERVATIONS.

The error of an astronomical chronometer is rarely greater than two one-hundredths of a second.

The images preceding sleep are found by M. Delage to be retinal; they persist as retinal "glimmers" after the eyes are closed, and pass to the cerebrum only when sleep begins.

Prof. Walkoff, of Munich, after an extended study of the skull of a prehistoric man, recently discovered, publishes the information that our oldest male ancestors, in his opinion, though able to walk erect, could not talk.

It having been found that the meter is not a natural unit of measure, it not being exactly a ten-millionth part of a quadrant of the terrestrial meridian, M. Gadot suggests that the height of the column of quicksilver in the barometer, at a given altitude and temperature, be taken as the standard.

The discoveries of Roman remains in Britain made in 1902 were even fewer than those of 1901. Excavations were continued at Silchester, Caerwent, and Hadrian's Wall; and the Scottish Antiquaries, having completed Inchtuthill, dug up Castledary. But the results were uneven in value; the field of excavations was not enlarged by new undertakings, and the list of interesting chance discoveries was short.

THE New York World

Thrice-a-Week Edition.

Read Wherever the English Language is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World was a brilliant success in the beginning and has steadily grown ever since. This is test of all things, and has set its seal of approval on the Thrice-a-Week World, which is widely circulated in every State and Territory of the Union, and wherever there are people who can read our mother tongue.

This paper for the coming winter and the year 1903, will make its news service, if possible, more extensive than ever. All events of importance, no matter where they happen, are reported accurately and promptly.

The subscriber for only one dollar a year, gets three papers every week and more general reading than most great dailies can furnish at five or six times the price.

The Thrice-a-Week World is absolutely fair in its political news. Partisan bias is never allowed to affect its news columns, and Democrat and Republican alike can obtain in its pages truthful accounts of all the great political campaigns.

In addition to all the news, the Thrice-a-Week World furnishes the best serial fiction, elaborate market report and other features of interest.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE BOURBON NEWS together one year for $2.75.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.00.

ROAD AND FARM IMPROVEMENT

CATALPA SPECIOSA.

Figures Calculated to Show That Forestry Can Be Made to Be a Profitable Occupation.

There are two varieties of Catalpa indigenous to the United States. One, Catalpa bignonioides, is found along the south Atlantic coast, and is not hardy north of the Ohio river. The other Catalpa speciosa, is a native of Ohio, Indiana and the southwest, and is perfectly hardy throughout Ohio. It is a very rapid grower, and the wood is almost indestructible. The wood is used for fence posts and ties. It takes on a fine polish for inside work. As it is naturally a spreading-top tree it should be planted closely to force it to grow upright. There has been planted about 600 acres to Catalpa speciosa at Farlington, Kan., for the Kansas City, Fort Scott & Gulf railroad, and about 400 acres for Mr. Hunnewell, the president of the road,

about four miles southwest of the Farlington plantation. These plantations were made on land so poor that the railroad company could not sell it. While the surrounding sections were sold at $12.50 per acre, these sections went unsold at five dollars. In no place was there over two feet of good soil. In a large part of the plantations it was not to exceed ten inches, and in places the subsoil or gumbo came to the surface and could only be plowed in the driest weather. These plantations were sadly neglected after the contractors turned them over; 2,720 trees were planted per acre, or four by four feet. The weaker trees were to have been cut out when the trees began crowding. This, however, was neglected for a number of years longer than it should have been. But now, at the end of 21 years, the government has sent foresters who thoroughly inspected the plantations, and their reports are issued in bulletin No. 37, "The Hardy Catalpa." I take the following figures from their reports. The total cost per acre at the end of 21 years for the Farlington plantation is $124.06. This includes cost of establishing as per contract $30, rent of land 21 years at two dollars, $42; cost of thinning, 62 cents; estimated cost of marketing products at one cent per post, $36.14; cost of superintendence 21 years at 75 cents per year, $15.30; total, $124.06. Basing their estimate on what had been already sold and estimating the remainder the value of an acre when 21 years old was $390.21, or $265.70 as the net return on the investment. The Hunnewell plantation, planted three years later than the above, averaged a total cost per acre at the end of 18 years of $110.30. Timber sold and still standing, $376.30 per acre, or a profit of $266.10.

The Catalpa is grown from seed, and is sold very cheaply by nurserymen. Unless one wants to make a very large plantation this is the best way to get the plants. At the Farlington and Hunnewell plantations the land was marked off crosswise with a corn marker set at four feet, the trees being planted at the intersections. Two men and one boy to carry the trees would plant 4,000 to 4,800 per day. I would advise those interested in Catalpa speciosa to write to the forestry department at Washington for bulletin No. 37.—Thomas H. Douglas, in Rural New Yorker.

The Value of Manure.

Matters will never be right in farming until the manure produced on the farm is regarded in the nature of a crop. It certainly has a money value—as much as hay, corn or cotton. Just as soon as we view the case in this way we will aim at making a big crop of manure much as we would a big crop of corn; and then we "will no more allow part of the manure crop to go to waste than we will part of the wheat or hay crop."—Barnum's Farmer

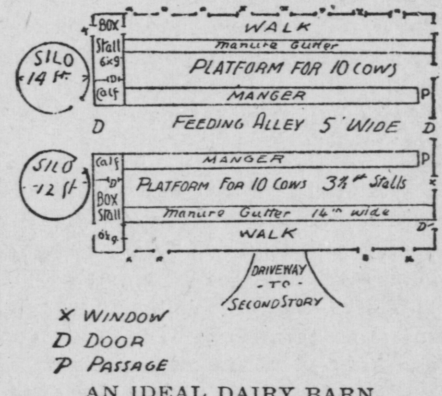

Plums are coming again in fashion as curculio decreases under scientific treatment.

THE DAIRY

BARN FOR TWENTY COWS.

New York Editor Answers Question of a Farmer Who Wants to Build One for $800.

The specifications in this question are somewhat meager, and in answering it I am forced to take some things for granted. There may be storage room for hay, straw, etc., already on the farm, and only a barn, one story high, or a stable, is needed; but I have supposed the idea is to have a barn floor overhead, with mows on each side of it. With this in view, I submit the accompanying crude sketch, trusting that our correspondent may get some helpful suggestions from it, if he does not care to follow my plan closely. If a driveway, or, as we call it here, a barn bridge, is to lead to a floor over the cows, if the building can be placed on somewhat sloping ground and an excavation of two or three feet be made at that side, it will make the bridge less steep. This would necessitate building a wall to come above the ground; but for the sake of the stable, it should be no higher. Let none of the other foundation walls be higher than necessary to just keep out surface water and protect sills from decay. Woodwork is less expensive than masonry, and will be dryer and more healthful for the cows. The stable should be at least eight feet to ceiling, and the storage part of the barn above the stable 16 feet to square. If built with a hip roof, more storage room above will be had than under a common pitch roof. A hay hole directly over the feeding alley, and a similar hole behind each row of cows, for putting down hay and straw, will serve the additional purpose of ventilation.

At least four ventilating flues, of capacity equal to about six inches in diameter, should start about a foot from the floor, two back of each row of cows, and against the outside of the stable, made preferably of galvanized sheet iron and end in one or more discharges, well above comb of roof. I have made provision for a number of windows in the cow stable, where there should be all the good sunshine and light possible to secure. There are two box stalls for cows to freshen in, or, in case of sickness; also, two calf stalls and two silos, as calves from good cows should be raised and they and their dams fed good corn silage the year around.

The framework of this barn should be of plank designs, saving for the builder, in comparison with the old heavy framed structure, time, money and timber. The cost of the building will depend, of course, upon the cost of material and labor; but by using the plank frame and as much ordinary labor as possible in nailing up frame, I should expect to build such a barn as I have suggested, and at least one of the silos, for the $800. The mangers, or troughs, should be built low, so the cow, when standing or lying, would have her head over the trough. It is quite a labor for a cow lying on a platform short enough to keep her clean to get up if the trough is so high that her head goes under it. I prefer the bottom of the trough two inches from the floor, so air may circulate under it. The side of trough next the cow, if ten inches high, will not interfere with her lying, and will be high enough to hold her feed of silage and meal or fodder and hay. From the feeding alley to the side of the manure gutter should be seven feet at one end of the stable and six and a half at the other, for medium cows; the longest cows being put at the seven-foot end and the shorter graduated to the other. The manure gutter should be ten inches deep next the cow and six inches next the walk; 14 inches wide and cemented to save all manure. I cement two feet from gutter under the cows, allowing their front feet to be on clay. This allows me also to build stall partitions by putting posts firmly in the ground to save an objectionable wilderness of posts and braces running to ceiling, where they obstruct the view, the sunlight and the freest circulation of air.

New Use for Skim-Milk.

There has been a process patented in Germany for making "meat extract" from skim milk. There are now a number of products on the market which utilize in various forms the casein of milk. The value of skim milk as human food has long been overlooked. The butter fat has been given a fictitious value as compared with the protein content represented in the casein or cheese element. As a fattener, skim milk is not so valuable as whole milk, but as a source of growth and repair, to make muscle, blood, brain and nerves, skim milk is without a peer, while butter is represented by 0.

An Example For Kentucky.

[Maysville Public Ledger.]
Mississippi has just laid, with fitting ceremonies, the cornerstone of a new capitol, to cost $1,250,000. Mississippi has a population of 1,511,270, an assessed valuation of $222,847,525, and an area of 16,810 square miles. The population of Kentucky is, on the other hand, 2,147,174, its assessed valuation $657,056,375, with an area of 40,400 square miles. The public edifices of the State of Kentucky at Frankfort are a disgrace to the State.

DO YOU WANT TO BE HAPPY?—Well, just put in a Home Telephone and you have obtained not only happiness, but genuine comfort.

Large Fire.

The large four-story seed and grain warehouse with entire contents, the property of D. S. Gray & Bro., of Winchester, was totally destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock. The building contained the largest stock of clean blue grass seed in the world.

The fire resulted from spontaneous combustion in the hemp department. The loss to the building and contents is $100,000, with $75,000 insurance. This is the third time that the concern has been burned out and each time with heavy loss.

T. Porter Smith, of this city, had a large bulk of this insurance.

Knifen is spending a brief vacation in Paris. — Lexington Leader.

Bourbon Boy in Flowery Kingdom.

Mr. Sam. Neely, of this city, who has been in the employ of the Bureau of Goyesty in the Philippines, has resigned his position and is now in China and will probably take work in engineering on the Imperial Chinese railway. Several months ago Mr. Neely was badly burned at Manila by the upsetting of a lamp which kept him confined in the hospital for some time.

Latest From Jackson.

The prosecution in the Jett and White trial at Jackson rested its case Saturday morning, being unable to secure the attendance of any of its missing witnesses. The defense asked for peremptory instructions for the acquittal of Tom White, but the motion was overruled by Judge Redwine, after an extended argument by the attorneys on both sides of the case. The defense then asked for a postponement until Monday because of the absence of witnesses. The motion was granted over the protest of Commonwealth's Attorney Byrd. Mr. Byrd is said to be hopeful of a conviction in both cases, but the defense, apparently, is fully as hopeful of securing an acquittal.

B. J. Ewen's hotel, valued at $10,000, and representing all his savings, was fired by an incendiary and burned to the ground Sunday night. Only a few articles of clothing were saved. Two men — teamsters in the employ of Hargis Bros. — were arrested on suspicion of firing the building. Bail was offered for them by County Judge Hargis and Sheriff Callanan, but they were held in custody for action by the grand jury.

Ewen deserves the sympathy and support of all good citizens, and already subscriptions have been started in aid of himself and family, who are left penniless.

Habeas corpus proceedings this morning liberated the men charged with the burning of Capt. Ewen's hotel, and temporarily delayed the assassination cases. Redwine decided to hold both men to the grand jury, which took up the case yesterday afternoon.

The provost guard summoned witnesses for the grand jury. Gray Haddick and Jerry Lanford identified Crawford as the man seen coming from the vicinity of Ewen's house.

A. H. Short saw Crawford and Tharp crossing the bridge going towards the hotel before the fire.

In referring to the above Judge Redwine said: "It is doubtful," said he, "if life and property were ever so insecure in a civilized community as it now is in Breathitt."

Jett admitted on the stand yesterday that he saw and talked to Mrs. Johnson, Marcus' sister. He said she asked him if he shot her brother. He replied: "I guess you would like to lay that on me. I get the blame for every murder committed here."

Jett said that at the time of the shooting his right hand was badly swollen and that he could not have used a weapon, a finger having been cut off two weeks before. He said he and White had had dinner that day and slept together at the home of Jim Hargis' mother that night. He said he went to Winchester and from there to the home of his mother, where he was arrested. Jett's memory was "tenuous" and he became unimpressive in his statements. On the whole he did not make a strong witness for himself.

Malitia Ordered to Maysville.

Some fifty members of the state militia arrived last night over the L. & N. and went into the camp at the courthouse in Maysville.

The remainder of the soldiers will reach there to-day over the C. & O., acting as guard over the negro prisoners Mann, Sanders and Morris, who will be brought from Covington.

Judge Harbison on Saturday overruled to motion of the defense of a change of venue, and unless there are reasons for a continuance, the trial of the accused will be prompt and fair, and their election to the penitentiary will be sure.

ADJOURNED.—Circuit Court adjourned Friday and will not be in session until Thursday.

ONE HUNDRED FOWLS.

In the House Here Described They Will Find Comfort in Winter as Well as in Summer.

The ground plan of a house shown herewith is designed at the request of a subscriber, to accommodate 100 fowls. It is 40x16 feet in size, faces the south and has a four-foot alley in front for the use of small chicks. It is divided into two pens and the partitions are of two-inch mesh wire netting. The front partition may be of one-inch mesh two feet high if it is desired to keep the little chicks from getting in among the larger ones. A platform four feet wide should be built in the entire length of the back side, 2½ feet from the floor. Nine inches above the platform place three roosts 12 inches apart.

The house should be seven feet high in the front, five feet at the rear and ten feet at the ridge, if it is to be covered with shingles. Four 5x10-inch 12-light windows should be placed at the front, and one may be placed at each end if desired. There may be a door in each end or one in the front. To make this house frost-proof, it must be built with double walls with an air space between. Lay 2x6-inch sills on a stone or brick foundation, laid in cement. The studding should be made of 2x4, placed two feet apart.

On these nail square edge boards, cover with a wind and waterproof sheathing paper, and then put on matched siding. Seal up the inside in the same manner. In winter time put on storm sash and a double door. Where a house is built as thoroughly as this, a ventilator should be provided. A six-inch tube should extend from the peak to within one foot of the floor, and be provided with a damper which can be opened and closed to regulate the flow of air. Enough air will leak in around windows and doors to keep it fresh.—Farm and Home.

INEVITABLE MISTAKES.

Why Beginners in the Poultry Business Must Expect to Lose Money at First.

No one that has not had experience in poultry raising should invest heavily in that business. The only safe way is to start small and increase the flock as rapidly as experience increases. The novice generally starts in with the firm resolve to succeed from the start. Frequently he gets all the information he can from books and he vainly imagines that the information so acquired will save him from mistakes. But the mistakes are made, just the same, though they are doubtless fewer on account of what has been gleaned from the experiences of others. People must have experience by themselves to really fit them to cope with the numerous situations they must face. Let the novice set it down as a certainty that he will make mistakes of a most serious nature, and that as a result of such mistakes great losses will result. In some cases these losses will be greater than the profits for the entire year in which they occur. We tell the novice of this before they occur, so that he may not be entirely discouraged and give up the effort when they do occur. Even people that have been brought up on farms encounter these discouraging experiences when they try to handle fowls in considerable numbers. The ones that have had a little experience in raising poultry are the ones most likely to invest considerable sums in an equipment before they are really competent to manage such equipment. Because they have had some experience they imagine themselves to be experts. Most of the failures are due to inexperience, but the people that have failed are not usually willing to admit this even to themselves. Even the farm boy that has fed chickens and gathered eggs since childhood will do well to go a little slow when he enters the ranks of professional chicken raisers, for it hurts less to lose 50 per cent. of a flock of a hundred than it does to lose a like proportion of a thousand fowls.—Farmer's Review.

Retinue of the Queen Bee.

That retinue surrounding the queen is something after this fashion in this locality: Under normal circumstances, when a queen is traveling over the comb, no worker accompanies her. If she runs against the hind end of a worker, the worker will pay no more attention to her than to another worker. If, however, the worker is in such position that she can recognize the presence of the queen, whether the queen touches her or not, the worker will invariably squarely face the queen; and if the queen stands still long enough there will be a circle of bees all facing centrally. As soon, however, as the queen moves on, the circle breaks up, never to be formed again of the same bees.—Gleanings.

ODD BITS ABOUT PEOPLE.

For catching eight trout less than six inches in size in McMichael's creek, near the Pennsylvania village of that name, Rodman Wister, a prominent Philadelphian, was arrested by Special State Fish Warden James Tittle. Wister paid $10 for each trout, or $85 with the costs.

Mrs. Charlotte M. Hoyt, of Tiffin, O., has died, leaving quite a comfortable estate. A trust fund of $30,000 is established and from the income $50 a month is to be devoted to caring for her cats and dogs. The deceased apparently thought twice as much of her father as of her four-footed pets, for he is to get $100 a month for life.

Rev. H. W. Hathaway, of Elizabeth, N. J., Presbyterian, has resigned his pastorate to go into the badge and button-making business. "An open door," he writes to his flock, "has been set before me, which I think I am called to enter and which I devoutly believe leads to a science for which I am fitted, and therefore in which I shall be blessed. The step I am about to take is the result of careful thought, much counsel and constant prayer."

The inconvenience of the similarity between a gentleman's evening dress and the attire of a waiter has received yet another instance. Mr. Choate, the American ambassador, was the victim on this occasion. At the state banquet to the king at the Guild hall the American ambassador was one of the few men in evening dress, nearly everyone being in court or municipal uniform. He was interested in the pulpit arrangements in which the carving was done, and ventured to ask one of the functionaries a question concerning them. "Never mind about old customs," was the reply; "look lively and clear away the soup plates!"

FULL-BLOODED INDIANS.

Ex-Gov. Johnson, of the Chickasaw nation is a man of good address, polished and courtly and so well up in the civilization of the white man that no one would think him of aborigine stock except for his coal-black hair and the suggestion of copper hue.

Great White Bear, the great-grandson of Tall Tree, whilom chief of the Crow Indians, will blow a bugle for Uncle Sam in the navy. Tired of the tame life which he endured for five years in the Carlisle Indian school, Great White Bear journeyed to League island and enlisted on the receiving ship Minneapolis as a musician.

In a farmhouse near Taunton lives the last descendant of the Massasoit Indians, Princess Teweelerna of the Wampanoags. She is called Miss Mitchell by her neighbors. Her face is of the pure Indian type that is rarely seen in this part of the country, and, although 67, she is in full possession of her mental and physical vigor.

Bear Tracks, outside the five civilized tribes of the Indian territory, is the only Indian legislator in the world. He is a member of the legislature of South Dakota and resides at Hot Springs. Bear Tracks is an Ojibwa Sioux, and is an expert barber by trade. He has made and lost a fortune, but at this time is in very good circumstances.

DISTANT RUMBLES.

Berlin (Germany) local trains now have special compartments for "passengers with dogs."

The average cost per year of maintaining a locomotive is $659 for shop labor and $656 for roundhouse, the total being $1,315.

A representative of the Burlington railway says that road has been robbed of $1,200 worth of coal a week during this winter.

Frank D. Underwood, president of the Erie Railroad company, began his career as a deckhand on a ferry boat on the Potomac river, where he received a salary of $40 a month.

A railroad 50 miles long is to be constructed in southeast Missouri this spring. It runs through a district which is distinctively the home of the watermelon. Enough melons are said to be produced there to keep one railway busy during the season in hauling them.

The important and increasing business of the Mexican railways is shown by comparing their international traffic during four months of the preceding year. The increase in exports by rail to the United States was from $5,296,763 to $7,699,484, and of imports from $10,722,563 to $12,588,707.

CROSS-CURRENTS.

The electric washing machine of Josef Nagy, of Szegedin, is claimed to cleanse clothes from grease, stains, etc., without soap or rubbing.

Anomalous electric conditions hold at the foot of Niagara Falls. The impact of the water upon the rocks gives the water a positive and the spray a negative charge.

Great activity is now being displayed in the extension of international telephones. Brussels and London and Rome are already connected. Negotiations are now in progress between the Russian and German governments still further to enlarge the area of international telephones by a direct line connecting St. Petersburg and Berlin.

High and low tension electric currents, Dr. F. Battellieri of Geneva, finds, produce death differently. Currents of 12,000 volts act on the nerve centers and cause asphyxiation, but the heart continues to beat, and the animal recovers when the current is removed. Currents of 20,000 volts act on the heart centrally. As soon, however, as the queen moves on, the circle breaks up, never to be formed again of the same bees.—Gleanings.

OF FEMININE INTEREST.

One-sixth of the landowners in Great Britain are women.

Women only are now to be employed as officials in the Rumanian prisons for females.

There are now 51,538 divorced people in the United States, of whom over two-thirds are women.

Princess Louise of Saxony has more than once been prayed for in the royal chapel at Dresden as "that unhappy woman."

In lower Austria the educators are once more discussing the question as to the advisability of allowing married women to teach in schools. One of the arguments advanced is that married women are, as such, better qualified than spinsters for bringing up children.

Judge Fessenden, of Boston, holds that it is "a fraud on the community to allow a divorced woman to resume her maiden name when she has a living child or children." In many cases he refuses to allow it, and never gives permission until he has made careful inquiry regarding the applicant.

Carroll D. Wright, United States labor commissioner, says that his investigations lead him to believe that no loss of respect toward women results from the comely employment of the sexes, "and as to moral conditions among women wage-earners," he declares further, "they are as high as among any other class of women and certainly better than among some."

Among the 20 girls who took part in an amateur comic opera performance in Philadelphia the other evening were 15 whose fathers are millionaires. It is said that the girls in question represented some $40,000,000. The affair was the biggest event among the Hebrews of Philadelphia for 20 years. A trainload of wealthy New Yorkers went over specially to take part in or witness the performance, which was given under the auspices of the Mercantile club.

IN FAR-AWAY PLACES.

The East Indians called rock crystal an unripe diamond.

Roumania, Servia, and Greece all have more men than women.

Every year Germany's population increases at the rate of 800,000.

Italy has 95,701 acres of orange and lemon groves containing 16,739,907 trees.

No fewer than 385,000,000 cigarettes were exported from Egypt in 1902. Of these 28,000,000 went to South Africa.

Among the 23,143 persons sent to penal servitude in Germany last year no fewer than 473 were charged with political offenses.

There is still sailing between Kirkcaldy and Denmark a fine old fore-and-aft schooner which made her first trip over 117 years ago.

Hearing that one of their class had been beaten to death by the police, Russian peasants at Sotschi, Diederburg, broke into the jail and released eight prisoners.

Cider is now so cheap in Germany Switzerland that it is being supplied in unlimited quantities in many cafes at so much an hour, the consumer drinking "at discretion."

Covered with damp moss in muslin troughs and hermetically sealed in tin some 20,000 Irish rainbow trout eggs are on their way from Innishannon, County Cork, Ireland, to Tokio, for the Japan exhibition.

MEN PROMINENT ABROAD.

Judicial experts appointed to inquire whether Mr. Zola's death was the result of criminal negligence have decided that it was not.

Dr. Jameson, in reply to an address at Cape Town recently, referred to the raid as a blunder which he had expected, and which he had hoped had been condoned.

A tall, slim man boarded a street car in Washington wearing a rather flashy-looking getup, consisting of checked suit, tan shoes and straw hat with a flaming red band around it. The conductor disapproved of him audibly, saying among other things: "Them duds makes me tired." He watched his passenger get off at the British consulate, but refused to modify his opinion when informed that the tall man was Sir Michael Herbert, King Edward's ambassador to the United States.

In connection with the marriage of Sir William Macgregor, the "pauper baronet," it may be noted that Sir Thomas O'Connor Moore is another titled personage satisfied to live in obscurity. He is the 11th baronet of an Irish creation of 1681 and he is a bachelor of 58. He resides in Cork, where he keeps a small coal store in a working-class neighborhood. The poor people regard him with due respect and entertain a romantic belief that their titled friend could have been married well had he so desired.

FROM A DOCTOR'S NOTEBOOK.

Scarlet fever is unknown in the tropics.

The new typhoid fever antitoxin is produced by injection into animals the poison of typhoid bacilli extracted by crushing them in liquid air.

According to a report newly laid on the table of the house of commons there were 2,893 deaths from cancer in Ireland in 1901. This represented a mortality rate of 6.5 per 10,000 of the population.

The venom of snakes contains only intermediary bodies which alone would not be virulently poisonous, but the normal blood serum of susceptible animals contains the substances which, in conjunction with the intermediary bodies of the venom, cause the deadly poisoning.

ARMY PEOPLE AND EVENTS.

Gen. and Mrs. Laurence P. Graham, of the United States army, celebrated the sixty-second anniversary of their marriage in Washington last week. They were married at St. Augustine, Fla., during the Seminole war.

Recently issued instructions prescribe that, in the garrison kitchens and canteens of the German army, home produce only shall be, so far as possible, used. American lard and fat are not to be eaten. The use even of foreign jams and preserves is forbidden.

Maj. Gen. Baden-Powell, "the hero of Mafeking," recently appointed chief of cavalry of the British army, has returned to England after a visit to the United States to study American cavalry tactics and methods. In order that he might accomplish his purpose with as little publicity and ceremony as possible, he traveled incognito and unofficially.

At a recent meeting of confederate veterans in Richmond a story was told which, if true, shows that once at least Grant lost his characteristic imperturbability. While he was in Virginia during the civil war an old lady sent her grandson to ask where he was going. The general answered, gruffly: "Tell your grandmother I am going to Richmond or Petersburg or Heaven or hell." The boy came back in half an hour and said: "My grandmother says you can't go to Richmond because Gen. Lee is there; you can't go to Petersburg because Gen. Beauregard is there, and you can't go to Heaven because Gen. Jackson is there."

After 43 years former Sergt. John Fogarty, late of the First United States cavalry, has decided to have extracted part of an arrow which was shot into him by an Apache on the edge of Death valley, California, in 1860. Fogarty, who is attached to the Army medical museum, was taken to the barracks in Washington, and there underwent an X-ray examination. The part of the arrow was located and it is to be cut out. Fogarty was serving under Gen. J. H. Carleton, who was on a campaign against some of the Apaches and their friends of the southwest. Fogarty and a squad were on their way down a mountain at the edge of the valley when an Indian shot the arrow into his neck and shoulder. His companions pulled out the shaft and some of the head. Most of the flint, however, remained.

TRADE AND INDUSTRY.

A Chicago cereal food company recently ordered fifty tons of ink for use in printing their packages.

There is a creamery near St. Alban's, in Vermont, which produces the record output of butter of five tons a day.

The Louisiana Purchase exposition will have a representative refrigerating exhibit. The various uses to which mercantile refrigerators are applied will be exhibited. There will be a skating rink, and at certain fixed hours during the day there will be a snow-storm.

The total value of the exports of animal products in 1902 was about $3,000,000 greater than the like exports of the previous year, but there was a decrease of nearly $8,000,000 in the value of cattle exported. This was due to the sharp demand for beef cattle in this country.

A commissioner of patents, Frederick I. Allen, stated positively that the patent office will not under any circumstances issue patents on so-called "perpetual motion" machines and that no patents for such machines have been issued by the patent office for the past forty years. This statement of the commissioner was made in response to an inquiry regarding the alleged issue of a patent for a perpetual machine.

IN OTHER LANDS.

Each of Germany's eight colonies, except Samoa, receives a subsidy greater than the revenue it yields.

Last year British coal exports (43,159,046 tons) were over a million and a quarter tons more than those of 1901.

The first sleeping car seen in Cuba is now on exhibition at Havana. This "dormitorio" is for use on the recently completed line to Santiago.

A German chemist states that, with suitable apparatus, saltpetre can be produced from the air by electricity at a fourth of its present cost.

The recent increase of fur prices in Russia is attributed to the fact that better skins are now required, because Europe has adopted the American fashion of wearing furs outside instead of as linings.

Honduras wants foreign capital for building a railway to the region where there is an abundance of mahogany, which is increasing in value. Previous to 1900, little mahogany and cedar was exported from Honduras to the United States; this year about 8,000,000 feet will be forwarded via Pensacola to Louisville and to Boston.

BRITISH NOTES.

About 90,000 tons of butter is made yearly in the United Kingdom.

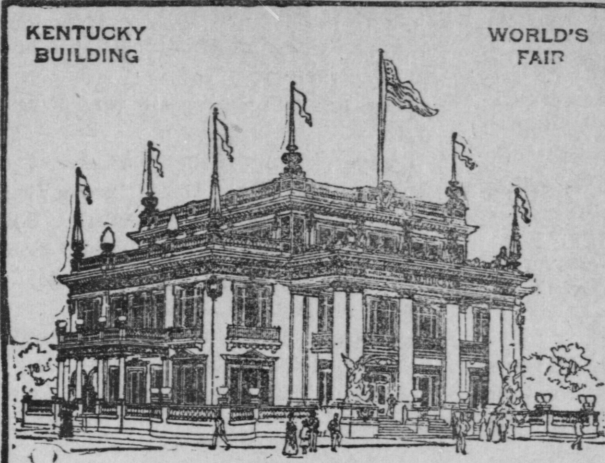

England's public debt is first mentioned in the national accounts in the year 1694.

Twelve thousand people were arrested in Glasgow last year for using obscene language.

Out of every 1,000 pounds of beef consumed in Great Britain in 1891 at least 700 pounds were home produced.

It is calculated that nearly $1,100,000 is paid each year in salaries to British football professionals. This is showing sixteen professionals to each club, and $3 a week as average salary.

FREE TRIPS TO ST. LOUIS WORLD'S FAIR. ALL EXPENSES OF THE 120 MOST POPULAR SCHOOL TEACHERS IN THE STATE PAID.

Kentucky children and public generally invited to vote to determine the most popular in every county. Votes ten cents each, ten cent at one time. All money over and above trip expenses of teachers to go into erection of the Kentucky Building at the Exposition. Every voter thus given the satisfaction of knowing a worthy cause and important object have been aided, at the same time a favorite teacher has received recognition. Contest conducted under auspices of Educational Exhibit Committee of Kentucky Exhibit Association, the organization formed to raise $50,000 for a Kentucky Building and full display of the State's products at the Exposition. The fair, the Legislature having failed to make an appropriation for the purpose, the State, whether teacher in public or private schools, or member of faculty of academy, college or university, medical, dental or theological institution, or member of any other educational institution, is eligible to election. Members of the Educational Exhibit Committee alone excepted.

Names of all school children voting to be enrolled in the Kentucky Building at the Exposition. Kentucky will occupy a conspicuous place in the Palace of Education. The Exposition is to be the greatest international event in the world's history. The 120 teachers chosen will be lucky indeed in being tendered this trip to the Fair. Every county elects its own most popular educator. The county outside of Jefferson casting the largest number of votes will be allowed to send two teachers—the most popular and the second most popular.

THE VOTES WILL BE TEN CENTS EACH, TEN CONSTITUTING A BALLOT.

At ten cents each every school child in the State will be able to cast at least one vote for his or her favorite teacher. But the voting will not be confined to school children.

PARENTS OF PUPILS OR ANY OF THEIR FRIENDS MAY VOTE. The purpose of the Association being to elect the most popular school teacher in each county, so considered by the public generally, as well as by the school children. Ballots contain ten spaces, so clubs of ten pupils may be arranged and each giving ten cents be credited with his or her vote. If one person desires to cast ten votes, it may be done by writing his or her name in one of the spaces and sending one dollar. It is not required that the name of the person voting be given at all. All of the spaces for voters' names may be left blank. The Association wants, however, to enroll in the Kentucky Building at St. Louis next year the name of every child who cast one or more votes in the contest. Pupils are asked therefore to sign their names plainly to the ballots.

ALL EXPENSES OF THE TEACHERS WILL BE PAID BY THE ASSOCIATION. This will include railroad transportation from Louisville to St. Louis and return, board at one of the best hotels in the city for six days and admission to the exposition grounds for six days.

THREE PARTIES WILL BE MADE UP FROM THE MOST POPULAR TEACHERS to make the trip more profitable and more enjoyable. Each of these parties will consist of forty (40) teachers. This would make a total of 120 teachers, but as there are only 119 counties in Kentucky, the Association has decided to allow two teachers from the most popular and the second most popular county from that county—Jefferson excepted—which casts the greatest number of votes in the contest.

ALL TEACHERS IN THE STATE STAND ON AN EQUAL FOOTING in this contest. The teacher with only twenty pupils may receive more votes than the teacher with five or six times as many enrolled in his or her school, because the voting is not confined to children. The public will be an important factor.

Votes may be cast for any person who taught school during 1902 or is teaching now. This gives the teacher of a five months' school, which closed in November or December, the opportunity to be voted for during the vacation period.

ANY NUMBER OF BALLOTS MAY BE CAST AT ONE TIME. There is no limit. The more dollars sent in for any one teacher the more votes he or she will be credited with.

ONE DOLLAR CASTS TEN VOTES; TWO DOLLARS CASTS TWENTY VOTES; THREE DOLLARS CASTS THIRTY VOTES; FOUR DOLLARS CASTS FORTY VOTES; FIVE DOLLARS CASTS FIFTY VOTES; TEN DOLLARS CASTS A HUNDRED VOTES; ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS CASTS ONE THOUSAND VOTES.

All of the money received in this contest, over and above that used in defraying expenses of the 120 most popular teachers of the State to their trip to the World's Fair, will go for the erection of a Kentucky Building at the exposition on every voter in this contest may have the additional satisfaction of knowing that he has aided a worthy cause.

THE STANDING OF THE CONTESTANTS WILL BE PRINTED FREQUENTLY in each county to show his or her friends how the race is being run. Begin voting now for your favorite school teacher. The votes will be counted under the supervision of the Educational Exhibit Committee of the Association. The personnel of this committee is as follows: Prof. H. O. Brownell, Louisville, Chairman; Prof. H. V. McChesney, Frankfort; Prof. R. P. Hallock, Louisville; Prof. W. H. Bartholomew, Louisville; Prof. F. Paul Anderson, Lexington; Dr. Chase Palmer, Danville; President William Dinswiddle, Jackson; Dr. W. G. Frost, Berea; Dr. B. H. Hammon, Louisville; Dr. E. Y. Mullins, Louisville; Dr. Arthur Young, Georgetown; Superintendent M. A. Cassidy, Lexington; Superintendent S. L. Froge, Frankfort; Prof. C. J. Crabbe, Ashland; Prof. McHenry Rhoads, Owensboro; Prof. T. S. Alley, Bellevue; Prof. C. C. Cherry, Bowling Green; Prof. Enos Spencer, Louisville; Miss Pauline S. Hill, Louisville; Mrs. Emily E. Bracken, Louisville, and Mrs. M. B. Tucker, Louisville. Members of the Educational Committee are not eligible to election in this contest.

REMEMBER EVERY COUNTY ELECTS ITS OWN FAVORITE TEACHER. Competition between counties only applies to the teachers of the trip, the county outside of Jefferson, casting the largest total number of votes being granted the distinction of sending two teachers. The result will be announced in every paper in the state, and, in addition to this, a congratulatory message will go to the teacher elected in each county. Later the details of the trip will be arranged, each teacher chosen being given the privilege of selecting the month—June, July or August, 1904—in which he or she wants to make the trip.

The Summons.
Must I go home? It is too soon—too soon!
I haven't been here half the afternoon!
We're busy playing—there's too much to do!
Why can't I stay and play till we get through?

The messenger speaks from the hallway's
gloom:
"Your father sends for you, dear child;
come home!"

They go—she struggles with her sudden tears.

How like a child am I, for all my years!

For me, too, waits a messenger.
I hear his garments rustle sometimes; he is near.
When falls the twilight; then, with tears,
I, too,
Shall plead: "Not yet! There is so much to do!"

Then shall the messenger speak from the
gloom:
"Your father sends for you, my child, come home!"
—Fannie Barber Knapp, in Chicago Inter
Ocean.

Think Twice.
Before you push a brother down,
Think twice.
Before at others' sins you frown,
Think twice.
For who are you, in judgment hall
Your brother to the bar to call?
To-morrow you may slip and fall—
Think twice.

Beware the stinging gibe and quip—
Think twice.
Lest you yourself should feel the whip,
Think twice.
Withhold the gossip's idle sneer,
The thrust that draws the bitter tear,
For fortune's favoring gale may veer;
Think twice.

Is charity a quickened art?
Think twice.
And does it thrill both heart and heart?
Think twice.
The mercy you to others show
That mercy you shall some day know;
With others' faults be kind, be slow—
Think twice.

In the Storm.
My child, your hero may not be,
In truth, a hero all the time;
Remember, it must chance that he Shall still have rugged steps to climb.
Don't place him on too high a plane
In fancy; then he will not fall
In your esteem and may attain
To something noble after all.

My boy, don't think your sweetheart bears
A halo on her golden hair;
A crown of purity she wears.
And you must help to keep it there.
But she will have her trying moods,
And be not always kind and sweet;
These are life's nervy interludes—
Sad pitfalls for unwary feet.

You both are far from perfect yet,
And quarrels will, unhappily, come—
Both may be wrong; so don't forget,
In anger's blind delirium,
That sweet concessions each must make
And tender promises renew;
Or else a loving heart may break
And sorrow come to dwell with you.
—Chicago Daily Record.

Afraid.
Oh, I can look in blue eyes,
Or I can look in gray,
And laugh; but when a brown-eyed maid
Looks up I turn away—
Blue eyes mean truth and purity,
Gray eyes a steadfast purity,
But I don't know what brown eyes mean,
And so I am afraid.

They mean all things at different times,
Love, fear, and joy, and hate;
But I can't tell what times they're sad
Or when they are elate,
Or when it's truth or love they mean,
Or laughter moves the maid;
And so I turn me from brown eyes
Because I am afraid.

Sometimes I think that I can see Far in their velvet depths
The every thought that gives them life,
And then a mischief creeps
Between me and the things I saw,
And all that I essayed
To say because of what I saw
Is stopped, I'm so afraid.
—I. M. Lewis, in Houston Post.

Day and Night.
Two dreams forever pass my door,

The other 'mid her goodlike calm,
Lifts me to dwell with death.

Teaching geography from an atlas
is difficult and unsatisfactory. Prof.
Elisee Reclus, the French geographer, urges the use of new and inexpensive
relief maps of aluminum or copper, which give elevations, depressions and globular contour in correct proportions, and show countries or slices of the earth on a much larger scale than they can be represented on globes of practicable size.

Compulsory education in the duties
of citizenship will probably be required in Connecticut, the legislature having under consideration a bill providing for it. The measure reads as follows:
"The duties of citizenship shall be taught in the public schools. The state board of education shall prepare and distribute to every school an outline of questions and suggestions relating to said subject."

Principal Story recently said before a meeting at the Glasgow university that Andrew Carnegie's gifts to Scotch educational institutions have "dried up the local springs of generosity." While in the past it was easy for him to collect more than $300,000 for the university, now it is difficult for him to get $15,000. He says Mr. Carnegie's munificence has scared away other givers of lesser wealth.

The principal of the only state school above the district school for negroes in Arkansas, situated at Pine Bluff, has provided a lecture course without any expense. As there was no money to pay for lectures he first gave a course himself and then went to the white men of the town asking them to continue the course, and each one approached consented, these men representing the principal social and business elements of Pine Bluff.

LIFE INSURANCE STATISTICS.

The people of the United States and Canada paid in 1902 $234,799,331
for life insurance.

New Yorkers, it is estimated, carry $2,056,000,000 in life insurance, paying annual premiums amounting to $22,945,475.

Philadelphia ranks second among the cities of this country for life insurance in force and for premiums payable thereon.

Curiously enough, Brooklyn leads Chicago in amount of insurance in force, $633,000,000 and $632,000,000 being the respective figures; but Chicago leads in the amount paid for premiums, the western city paying $6,922,437 annually, as against Brooklyn's $6,805,277.

Boston is the fifth city in importance to the insurance interests of the country, both in insurance carried and in amount paid therefor.
Baltimore, Cincinnati and St. Louis then follow in the order given only as to amount of insurance in force.
Like Chicago and Brooklyn, the figures are in a different order when it comes to gross annual premiums. In the latter case the cities rank thus:
St. Louis, Baltimore and Cincinnati.

Ninth in the list is Pittsburg. In amount of insurance carried San Francisco, Buffalo, Cleveland and New Orleans come in the order given.
In the amount paid for life insurance
the order is as follows: Minneapolis,
San Francisco, Buffalo and Cleveland.
It will be noticed that the two lists
do not vary in the order of the cities
mentioned, but in that New Orleans appears only in the first and Minneapolis in the latter. Both of these cities come much further down in the tables in which they do not here appear.

FINE LEGUMINOUS CROP.

Tennessee Farmer Grows Enthusiastic About the Possibilities of Hairy Vetch.

After seeing the hairy vetch grown in a small way for two or three years, I have concluded that it is bound to become one of the most important of our leguminous crops. In this latitude it may be sown in September or October, and cut for hay in May, thus giving ample time to follow it with a corn crop. I cannot say how much hay it will yield per acre, as practically all with which I have dealt has been saved for seed; but I do know that it will grow four to five feet high on good land, and this means that it will yield enough to merit attention.

Analyses of the plant show that it is very rich in protein, and anything that will help to balance the usual excess of the carbonaceous elements in our rations is undoubtedly needed by most farmers. For hay, it should be cut when in full bloom. If sown alone it will be hard to handle, but when sown with equal parts of wheat or oats, it is readily managed.

As a cover crop it is especially valuable, furnishing pasture in both fall and spring and adding large quantities of nitrogen to the soil. Some soils, it is said, must be inoculated with the bacteria which produce the nodules on its roots before the vetch will grow well; but in my experience this has never been necessary. It grows well on a variety of soils and under widely different conditions. It seems to be far less particular in this respect than crimson clover. Where a few seeds were dropped in a pasture, they came up and grew readily; and the Arkansas experiment station recommends it for sowing on Bermuda sods, the two furnishing pasture nearly all the year.

Owing to the high price of the seed at present, most farmers will probably find it unprofitable except for seed.
We sow it at the rate of one-half to one bushel per acre. It is cut when the bulk of the seed seems ripe, and threshed in an ordinary grain thresher. It will yield from six to ten bushels per acre; and the latter figure may be exceeded on good lands. If the seed is wanted pure, it must be sown alone;
but this means some extra labor in handling. It will reseed itself when allowed to ripen, one piece of land which was sown only once having produced two crops of vetch and one of corn, and having a good stand of vetch growing on it at present.

In all the southern half of the country, winter cover crops are a necessity if the land is to be improved, and for this purpose I know of nothing better than hairy vetch. This, together with its value for hay and pasture, is my reason for the opinion with which I began this paper.—E. E. Miller,
in Country Gentleman.

THE FARM MECHANIC.

This Little Article Tells Him How Warped Doors Can Be Straightened Quite Easily.

Many stable and shed doors, opened by trucks running on a track, require a great effort to move them. This trouble is caused generally by the door, if becoming warped. To straighten such doors, make a truss, h g, of two by five joists, and securely fasten them to the top and bottom of the door. Next put in the fulcrums, j and k. Then put a strap of iron on at m, through which and the truss frame run the bolt l m. On the inside of the door f, put a large washer, at l, to prevent bolt l m from pulling through the door

when the nut m is turned up. The ful-crums, j and k, need to be varied to remedy the warping of different doors.

Basin of Good Pasture.

The basis for every good permanent pasture is Kentucky blue grass. Many sections in the central west will quickly produce blue grass sod if left uncultivated. It is not, however, generally profitable on high priced land to depend on this method for securing a permanent pasture. By this practice many bare spots will remain for several years which are not only objectionable because they materially diminish the yield, but also because they give opportunity for noxious weeds to grow.
It is far better, therefore, to sow blue grass seed at the rate of about 14 pounds per acre on perfectly prepared land. A dressing of barnyard manure will insure a good set of grass if other conditions are favorable.

The Earthworm's Mission.

The common earthworm has held the attention of scientists ever since Darwin pointed out the wonderful part it plays in the formation of soil.
The chemical role of the earthworm has been the subject of the latest investigation. In some wonderful manner the soil in passing through the short length of the worm becomes totally changed in character, and much better fitted for the nourishment of plant life. Such soil undergoes nitrification more rapidly than soil ordinarily does, and the solubility of the phosphoric acid is increased, while the percentage of carbonate of lime becomes larger.

The greatest ranching country of the Canadian northwest is Alberta.

XP
ons

A number of experiments have been tried with the hairy vetch, and the results have been most encouraging. An English college professor, Alexander Hill, has been making a similar investigation in regard to dogs.
Up to the present time he has worked with only a single animal. He describes in Nature what he did, and expresses the hope that other persons will imitate his example and report their successes to him.

An exceptionally intelligent fox terrier was selected for the experiment.
He was first taught the trick of opening a box by lifting a wooden latch with his nose. When he had mastered the art, a spring on the door was stiffened so that there would be no danger of the latter opening by accident.
This was not a serious obstacle, but it required a deliberate effort. As food was given in reward for success
—a common practice in training animals—the dog would usually open the door without instructions when he had a chance. Sometimes he would examine the interior, but no food was ever placed there until the time came for the final tests.

One day, when he had been sent supperless to bed the previous night, he was allowed to stroll into a yard with which he was familiar, and where a hot grilled bone had been placed in the box. He scented the object and dashed toward the box. Possibly because the smell distracted his attention, he showed only a slight disposition to perform his old trick. He placed his nose under the latch, but withdrew it without lifting. After

HOW THE LATCH WAS APPLIED.

much sniffing, he ran off, returned,
sniffed more, and finally went away without opening the box. He was not given a second chance until he had been off for a 12-mile run in the country.
By that time the bone was cold and gave off little or no odor. Yet, strange to say, when let into the yard where the box was, the dog lifted the latch and quickly seized the bone. He had now discovered food inside the box for the first time.

A fortnight later the same experiment was tried with the same result.
The terrier did not lift the latch and remove the bone when the first opportunity was given, although he sniffed the box eagerly. He came back a second time without doing so. Only after an absence extending over some hours did he get the bone. Here is what Prof. Hill says in conclusion, to justify his belief that no reasoning
power was exercised:

"In this experiment the dog knew two things. He knew how to open the box. Indeed, the sight of the latch was so strongly associated in the dog's mind with the action of lifting it that it is surprising that the usual almost mechanical response to sensation did not occur. Had he lifted the latch it would not necessarily have implied that he did it with the object of securing the food. He knew that the box contained meat. Eager as he was to secure the meat, he did not reason: 'The way to secure the meat is to lift the latch.'"

A Modern Cannery.

A modern cannery is a marvel of mechanical ingenuity. After the fish is cleaned, automatic machines do nearly all the remainder of the work, even,
in some instances, filling the cans with a motion for all the world like that of two human hands, one holding the can, the other crowding it full of raw fish. I shall not attempt to enter into a description of the machinery; the can of fish is started rolling on its way, and one has the impression that it continues to roll through machine after machine, hardly touched by human hands. It rolls into the cooker and out again—even rolls itself into a bright-colored label—and finally, somehow rolls into a packing box, ready to be loaded in the car waiting at the door.

Cycles of Glacier Growth.

Glaciers are supposed to increase and decrease in cycles more or less regular. An inquiry by M. Charles Rabot shows that the same stages are not simultaneously reached in different parts of the world, and that in Norway, where the cycle is some two centuries long, the last general increase began in 1700 and the decrease is still in progress.

Intoxication in Animals.

M. Grobaut, professor of physiology in Paris, in describing the effect of alcohol upon animals, says that the successive stages of intoxication through which they pass are gayety, sadness, solemnity and a supreme intoxication which ends in death. Rabbits are very curious when under the influence of liquor, and a drunken kangaroo is brutally aggressive.
